Traders happy after major works near end

By Jon Burbridge

TRADERS are optimistic for a boom in business now that the main work on pedestrianising a part of a town centre is finished.

Kettering town centre has been transformed with the Market Square and St Peter’s Square being pedestrianised since the end of last year.

Regeneration Council had hoped to finish the works by the end of March but says only minor adjustments are now needed to finally complete the project, such as cleaning up and planting.

This has been welcomed by independent traders, who have been hit hard by the 18-month roadworks, saying off would be expensive.

Programme manager Paul Thomas said: “We have been encouraged by the positive comments we have received about the improvement works. Customers have already in the area, members of the public and new businesses looking to invest in Kettering. We are really looking forward to working with the shops and local traders to help them make the most of the new and improved public centre.”

Message:

We spent a superb afternoon in the town centre, walked by the water fountain and stopped off with mac donalds on the way back to the car. No chance off feeding the kids as people were bringing swimming costumes to let their ankle biters play in the indian summer heat.

Being badgered to return, frankly amazed at the difference, haven't been into Kettering for years.
Ellandi and Curzon Capital Partners III, a fund managed by Tristan Capital Partners have acquired the Newlands Shopping Centre in Kettering.

The acquisition is the first acquisition made by the joint venture, it has intentions of building a £150m portfolio of value and convenience shopping centres.

The Newlands Centre has a strong and loyal catchment and Kettering is a growth area, benefiting from an increase in housing and it’s proximity to London and the motorway network.

The centre had tenants such as TK Maxx, Iceland, Boots, WH Smith and Poundland. There are also opportunities to undertake redevelopment and to attract other major retailers to the scheme. We hope to work closely with Kettering Borough Council to unlock this potential.
Town Centre Action Plan

Kettering town centre – Action Plan

We’re making the town cleaner and safer

- Graffiti and grime - cleared away in less than a day!
- More litter bins provided - just in better locations
- Streets are cleaned every day
- Our Environmental Health enforce high standards 7 days a week
- We’re responsive to our customers – Our Crime Hotline (01536 410 333) takes the call
- We support the Street Patrol, PCDO’s and the Police and crime levels are dropping as a result
- Crime busting CCTV protects the town centre

We’re making the town centre more attractive and accessible

- Park your car in the town centre for just 40p with our Pop and Shop parking
- Market Street and Sheep Street are now pedestrian friendly
- New bus stops and terraces are now the heart of the town centre
- Improved parking with greater accessibility for the disabled
- New double roundabout has relieved congestion and unlocked future potential of the town
- New retailers such as Wharfedale, Coop and JD: More to come
- A streettownd scheme helps restore a sense of place whilst vacant shops are approaching making them look much more
- We are working closely with the new investors in the developments to improve the town and quality of the offer

“Town Centres are suffering both natural and manmade damage, but independents are weathering the storm and are showing signs of a naturally regenerative ability that can revive the high streets of the country”

Bira, 13th June 2011
Independents have been impacted by closures, but have shown a greater propensity to reinvent themselves.

The closure rate of independents has significantly reduced over the past two years and 2011 has started well.

Independents occupy more than 65% of the total retail stock, and fill over 35% of the available floorspace.

The impact of their success is, therefore, not insignificant.
